The Company manufacture the best shuttle lock-sitich machines ever introduced, with all the latest improvements both for light and heavy work.

In addition to which they make their celebrated Grover and Baker sitch family machines in great variety. They sew from ordinary reels, no rewinding of thread being necessary; they make beautiful embroidery without any change of arrangement; they are the only machines that both embroider and sew perfectly. The tensions on the threads are self-adjusting, requiring no alteration for different thicknesses of material.

Every machine warranted to give perfect satisfaction.

SIGER'S NEW IMPROVED LOCK-STITCH SEVING MACHINE.—A New Investion.—The introduction into this colony of these new Machines will be hailed with pleasure by all classes of this community.
They are acknowledged by the most competent judges to be far more simple, more easily managed and worked, than any other sewing-machine extant. For simplicity, durability, rapidity and sase of motion, and capability of doing the greatest variety or range of work with the utmost precision and nestness, they stand unrivalled and unequalled. They stitch, here, tiell, bind, gather, tuck, culti, braid, embroider with either sik or wood, and will de a great variety of ornamental work. They make the TIOHI LOCK-SITUM, and one which positively will not ravel, and will sew anything, from the running of a tuck in tarletan to the making of an overcoat. No charge for instruction to intending purchasers. We invite all persons the pay us a visit, whether they have or have not a desire to purchase, and witness the say and perfect working of SINGER'S new improved

The Sydney Morning Berald.

SATURDAY, MAY 18, 1867. THE question of Martial Law is undergoing searching investigation in Great Britain. A rumour prevailed that it was about to be introduced into Ireland. The Government have, duced into Ireland. The Government have, however, announced that there is no intention to resort to such measures, and that it is quite sufficient to confide in the ordinary operations of law. The transactions of Jamaica have also brought out prominently this subject before the whole British Empire. The danger is seen of confiding to any person, however high, power to supersede the ordinary Courts of justice, for the purpose of accomplishing a political result, or striking terror into persons supposed to be hostile to the Government. It was stated in the House of Commons that the highest judicial the House of Commons that the hignest judicial authority in England, having heard of the trans-actions of Jamaics, declared that no clearer instance of murder, upon the facts presented, had ever been perpetrated. This was stated not in a corner, but in a company where there were many listeners.

It will be recollected that when the Chinese disturbances took place on the gold diggings of this colony, and a satanic spirit of mischief seemed to possess a large portion of the population, it was necessary to send military force to overawe these wretches and to preserve the unfortunate foreigners from mutilation. On that occasion it was proposed by members of the them Executive to establish martial law. Evidently they were not acquainted with its operawere many listeners. dently they were not acquainted with its opera-tion. Perhaps but for the decided views of the tion. Perhaps but for the decided views of the GOVERNOE himself, whose large experience of public affairs qualified him to judge of the true functions and powers of civil government, it might have been adopted. No blame indeed can be attached to the Minister who proposed it, for if ever there was an instance when society was helpless before the disturbers of the public peace, it was in the case of a riot in the interior of the country, and remote from that redress which the civil power and the Courts of justice commonly afford.

It will be remembered that when the pro-position for martial law was made in this colony a letter appeared in this journal from Mr. MARTIN, alleging its illegality, and warning against its adoption. We hope that there will never be any occasion to refer to the subject as a practical question, but it will be satisfactory to find that the authorities of England confirm the views expressed on the spot, and that the limits of military power will be better defined, as well as the means, when dealing with

It is not to be expected that military men should be much wiser on these points than civilians. Their habit of obedience to authority, and their professional dislike of all civil disorders and political demonstrations, would induce them ing upon insurrection is, however, undergoing a careful scrutiny, and the result will be that it will be established beyond doubt that the only right of a military force is to put down actual resistance to Government; that any attempt at punishing for the sake of punishment is beyond its func-tions. Wherever they find an enemy in arms, they may use all measures necessary for his sup-pression; and a resort to anything like judicial forms of inquiry can only be regarded as a guaforms of inquiry can only be regarded as a guarantee against sudden measures which would involve innocent life. By the law upon this subject we believe the military have no protection but in the justification of their acts by the facts which are shewn. In practice, of course, any Government will cover those who are bona fide employed in its service, and who But it has been laid down upon several occasions that even private soldiers, sharing in an illegal act, are liable to the penalties of that illegality. And although it may seem hard, the law will not in any precise form indemnify the instruments of cruelty, although, of course, in the practice of government, no one would wish to see the soldier held responsible for deeds under the direction of his officers given in a deliberate form, and with all the assumption of moral responsibility. The many murders committed under the forms of martial law, and without it, by men holding commissions will prove how essential it is to those who are over them are responsible for the acts they direct, and whether the command given is such as will bear the scrutiny of reason able investigation. We believe it will be found that it is the duty of all subjects to aid and assist in suppressing an armed or violent resistance to law and acts of aggression either upon Governments or individuals; that anything done in good faith and necessary for this purpose is justifiable, and that no person is allowed by any military force to supersede the functions of public justice, or to do by his own will and in his own way that which can and ought to be left to the determination of the Courts of law.

In a letter which appeared in the Times, March last, Mr. Buxton gives an account of the proceedings of the officers who shared in the Jamaica executions, declining, however, to share in their prosecution. After describing the brutalities connected with some of these the brutalities connected with some of these outrages he says:—

"On the 30th of October Governor Eyre officially proclaimed that 'the wicked rebellion lately existing in certain parts of the county of Surrey had been subdued.' He adds—'The chief instigators thereof and actors therein have been visited with the punishment due to their heinous offences, and I am certified that the inhabitants of the districts lately in rebellion are desirous of returning to their allegiance.' Now, will it be believed that on and after the day of the publication of these words more than a hundred negroes were executed, of whom sixty-four were executed at monot these words more than a hundred negroes were executed, of whom sixty-four were executed at Morant Bay with the express sanction and approval of Brigadier Nelson? It will be said, no doubt, that these men who were put to death after this solemn proclamation of the Governor must, of course, have been murderers. That was not so, Of the sixty-four men hanged at Morant Bay after the publication of this amnesty forty-six were charged with rebellion only, not of any complicity in any murder.

"But, besides all these, 202 persons were flogged at demend to long terms of imprisonment. Now, in a very few cases it has been possible to discover that three persons were hanged merely for having taken a part in the petty local riot some time before the outpershall the persons were brighted their backs by persons whe might perfectly well have given their evidence in open court. Five persons were convicted on affidiavits made behind their backs by persons who had himself just been sentenced to death as a spy; and actually one of the persons thus convicted on the evidence of the condemned man had been one of the grave charges brought against the prisoner was that the had latterly been much opposed to the respectability of the parish. This charge was made by a petty local officerability of the parish, possibly to Bumbledom itself. And this man was hanged on the very day when Governom Eyre was writing that the rebellion had been got under long before. But now let me give a single specimen of Lieutenant Brand's solm: Maria third seven men and hunged them. Not a single one of this seven was so much as accused of any completity in any murder, but only of rebellion, and one of them of manesty, Lieutenant Brand's dour! Maria third seven men and hunged them. Not a single one of this seven was as much as accused of any completity in any murder, but only of rebellion, and one of them of manesty. Lieutenant Brand's double of the parish. The prisoner had been convicted on several occasions of assaults and other offences against the neg

Long after, he never having been in any way connected, or on the spot, with the rioters of Morant Bay, and having delivered himself up without resistance, he was put to death accompanied with expressions of insult and cruelty which would disgrace an Abyssinian savage. There was no possible reason for punishing this man, even if he had been guilty, when he was out of the district of court-martial, and was chargeable with no array against the Government itself. But men who consider themselves lifted to the lofty height of avengers in performiffed to the lofty height of avengers in performing "a grand act of force," act like the conquerors of former times, who trampled upon the slain and dragged their prisoners at their horses' tails until they were beaten to death. All idea of law was dismissed. The very mention of it was an aggravation of the crime, and no man was more certain to be hanged than those who expressed any objection upon principle to this amalgamating the two systems of Education, but sufficient precautions were not taken to guard againt abuse. The advantages expected have not been realised, and it has become again necessary to recast the whole system, and

Before proceeding, however, to make any change on the basis of general discontent, the Government appointed a Commission of Inquiry, and this elicited facts and made suggestions that very clearly pointed out the directionthat a change in the law should take.

In presenting to the Legislative Assembly a bill to amend the system of primary education Mr. HIGINDOTHAM made an able speech, in Mr. HIGINEGTHAN made an able speech, in which he clearly summed up the defects which the existing law had developed, and exposed the need of a reform. We have so lately passed through a warm educational discussion

The amalgamation of the National and Denominational systems in Victoria was expected to result in economy. The expectation has been totally disappointed. The cost of primary education has greatly increased without the quality being correspondingly improved. In 1862 when the amalgamation took place the cost of the double system was £125,000 a year. In 1866, under the united system it had ricen to £1,4000 a year are readsystem it had risen to £174,000 a year, and larger amounts were asked for, which made it clear that if no stop were put to the increase the amount would very soon be £200,000 a year, or a fifteenth part of the whole annual revenue. So much for the economy of getting rid of the double system.

This experience may be fairly taken as a warning to ourselves. It is clear that the unification we have adopted will not necessarily prove as economical as it was promised it should. A close watch will have to be kept should. A close watch will have to be kept over the expenditure to see that it does not degenerate into extravagance.

Let us compare the colonial expenditure with that of the mother country. In England the educational grant is £750,000, but if it spent in proportion as Victoria does it would spend seven or eight millions. In England the proportion as Victoria does it would spend seven or eight millions. In England the salary of a certificated teacher averages £94 per annum. In Victoria the head teachers of the common schools receive salaries varying from £218 to £275 a year. Admit that there is some difference in the cost of living in the colony and in the mother country, still it is nothing like a, hundred and fifty per cent., and it is still less where residences are provided.

The importance of a thoroughly effective primary education is everywhere falt to be so primary education is everywhere felt to be so great in these colonies, with their democratic constitutions, that no one would grudge any expense provided that it were really necessary, and that value were received for the money. But what is the case in Victoria with all this lavish outlay? Why that more than half the teachers are uncertifi-cated, and that there is no training school to supply the needed process for making the in-efficient efficient, or for developing a new and oved race of teachers. A very high price is, therefore, paid for instruction of what must obviously appear of a low quality. In such a case a stringent reform is evidently needed. Mr. HIGINBOTHAM avows his conviction that duestion in Victoria is going back instead of forward, and that, unless something is done to prevent it, the next generation of the colonists will be worse educated than the present. Good will be worse educated than the present. Good teachers are a primary necessity, and without an adequate supply of them, the standard of educa-tion must be below par.

The amalgamation of the Boards in Victoria

The amalgamation of the Boards in Victoria was expected to bring about an amalgamation of schools. This expectation, too, has been cruelly disappointed. Only a few such amalgamations have taken place, and the separate schools atill remain. There are between 700 and 600 teachers in the colony, and yet there are many districts wholly neglected. The work is too much subdivided in the towns, and too much neglected in the country. The Denominational competition has survived the extinction of the Denominational Board.

It may be supposed that there is some com-

It may be supposed that there is some com-pensation for this in the special zeal there has been for religious education. But Mr. Highpensation for this in the special zeat user has been for religious education. But Mr. HighBOTHAM says that among the Protestant schools the denominationally religious education is non-existent. The sectarian zeal spends itself in getting the land and getting up the school, and there it stops. He said: "The religious difficulty did not exist in this country, and perhaps the committee would be surprised to learn that there was not a Protestant school in the country in which the special views of the denomination on religious subjects were taught—not one, and that generally speaking, even religion itself, as apart from denominational views, was not, as a rule, taught in Protestant schools. In fact, Protestant sects neglected and failed to fulfill the trust upon which they held their lands." This is a very remarkable statement. Mr. Highmorham accounts for it by saying that the sectarian accounts for it by saying that the sectarian zeal seems more to occupy itself with getting land and buildings, and numbers, and position, and prestige than in inculcating special views, and he evidently considers that it has and he evidently considers that it has been a most mischievous policy in virtue of which the Government has hitherto granted sites for Denominational schoolhouses. It has simply led to a scramble for property and leadership, under the pretence of great earnestness on behalf of special views of religious truth. He desires to stop this practice, and as far as possible to reverse it. He progious truth. He desires to stop this practice, and as far as possible to reverse it. He proposes a plan for the sale of Denominational schoolhouses to the State, and is sanguine enough to hope that in five years they will disappear, and only public schools will remain. His idea is that if State-aid is withdrawn the schools that have hitherto lived upon it will be unable to live without it, and that a transfer of the property—allowing the sects to keep a portion of it—will readily be made. So that, while hitherto the sects have been bribed by the State to set up schools, they are now to be bribed to sell them. It would be difficult to invent a keener satire upon State-aid

The Roman Catholics alone have shown zed! in imparting special religious instruction. Mr. Highnorman discusses the claim they set up for a separate grant. He rejects that claim on the ground that it cannot be conceded to one the ground that it cannot be conceded to one denomination without an equal concession being made to all, as any special preferences are opposed to the spirit of the Constitution.

The inquiries of the Commission ascertained that there was a wide-spread feeling among parents in favour of a religious education, but with an indifference as to sectarian peculiarities. Mr. HIGINBOTHAM proposes to make this the characteristic of the education of the public schools. He meets the application to define religion by declining to do it, and in defence urges the fact that no two clergymen examined before the Commission could agree to give a definition of what religion was. Yet if it is undefinable he maintains that it is substantial. Practically, he considers that the local Boards will have no difficulty in regulating is no alternative but to fall back on purel secular education. A return to the Denomina tional system is considered out of the question.

It is obvious that in respect to the question of public education Victoria has passed through or public education victoria has passed through much the same phase of experience that this colony has, but Mr. HIGINBOTHAM has broached two topics which have yet to be de-veloped here. One is compulsory education, and the other is local school rates. Both these

THE PRINCE OF WALES THEATER. — Mail Julia Mathews has appeared every evening during the week before fair houses, and her success seems to have induced the manager to extend her engagement is order to produce Lixio, a new buriesque, considered to be one of the bost produced in the colonies. On Monday evening and last night Miss Mattews sustained the character of Novah Morrion, in the Irish Heiress, and Aladdin, in the buriesque of that name. In the latter she divided the honours with Mr. Rogers, whose "Widow Twankey" is considered his best impersonation. Mrs. Holloway, Miss Bushe, Mrs. Jones, and Mr. Greville, and the other members of the company sustained the minor characters to the astisfaction of the antience. On Tuesday and Thurnday evenings, "Grist to the Mili," with Miss Mathews as Francine, and Aladdin formed the programme. On Wednesday evening, the "Colleon Bewn" proceded the burlesque. Miss Mathewy has on each evening displayed her vocal abilities with narrhed success, and her rendering of many of the most popular ballade of the day has formed one of the principal attractions of the entertainment.

The GOUMANYS.—These closer performers are still the popular favourites. In spite of the inclement weather, the smussing entertainments which are given nightly at the School of Arts-continue to attract the limit share of the substituted for "Mrs. M'Gregor's Leven" and, though we cannot say that they surpass that accellent parfermance, still they are very good in their way, and serve to pass away a couple of hours is a very humogrous and unique little sketch, in which "The Rose and Thistie" is a very humonrous and unique little shetch, in which the ability of Mr. Gouriey, who personates a testy old Scotch baronet, finds good scope. Mrs. Gouriey, as "Mrs. Blandish," is as amisable, coquestish, and sacjanting as possible, and the youthful "Patrick" is a particularly prepassesing serving main. In "Phichings from Waverley," which forms the second portion of the programma. Mr. Gouriey, appears to great advantage in some of fir Walser Scott's occantre Scotch characters, and Little Johnny comes out very strong indeed as "Jock Mutr," the berd. Although the tenor of advices by last mail was very encouraging to importers, the looked for improvement in the markets has not yet taken place, and both buyers and sellers have become more cautious, the former as to the quantity they purchase, and the latter as to whom they do business with. Articles of which short shipments are reported are held in some bands for extreme rates, but generally there is a disposition to meet the market. The recent large arrivals of breadstuffs have caused stocks to accumulate and prices rule more in favour of buyers. Best town made flour is selling at £12 to £12 10s.; Adelaide wheat, 5s selling at £12 to £12 10s.; Adelaide wheat, 5s. to 5s 2d. The market is now well supplied with bulk ale, of which best brands bring from £5 to £9 5s; Joules's has been placed during the week at the former quotations. Bulk porter moves slowly. Bass's triangle ale at auction brought 9s. 3d.; Guiness's stout, 9s. 6d. Best brands of brandy, in wood and glass, continue steady. A large line of Martell's case (damaged) was placed at auction to-day, at 22s. Rum is very firm, and likely to rule higher. Oilmen's stores and general groceries command very full rates; stocks are by no means heavy. The arrival of the Adelaida, with about 350 tons of new Patna and a portion of the St. Louis's cargo transhipped a portion of the St. Louis's cargo transhipped from Melbourne to this market, has caused a decline of about £2 per ton in rice. A portion of the St. Louis's cargo has been placed privately at £27. Candles are slightly improved. Sales of full weights have been made privately at 131d, to 14d, and by public sale at 131d. Since the sale of the Trinculo's cargo transactions in teas have been almost limited to private sales of the Shelburne's cargo on terms with-held. A sale at auction of a shipment from Auckland has been already noticed. Sugars are dull, with a falling market. Only a portion f the Marie Gabrielle's cargo found buyers today. The damaged portion of her cargo, and the damaged portion of the Guantanomo's are for sale next week.

EARTHQUAKE AT MYTILENE.

The Lecant Herald publishes the following details of the earthquake at Mytilene:—

"On Thursday, the 6th March, the weather had been close and unwholesomely hot; but as this is generally the case with the south wind, which had seen blowing for some time, nothing was thought of the lecans of all was there any fear of what followed. Though volcanic, as is proved by the numerous hot springs, the island had not, during the present generation, been visited by earthquake; it was now, however, to have a terrible experience of the phenemenon. About 6 p.m. a sharp shock, lasting some 15 or 18 seconds, vibrated througheut the town, and before the fact was well realised, was followed by a second, longer and much more violent. I happened at the moment to be down at the pier of the Austrian Lloyd's agency, and, nearly half a minute before the shock was felt on shore, saw the ses heave and feam out in the port as if a submarine explosion had taken place. Little time, however, was left for surprise. In much less time than I take to write it, the double thrill quivered through the town, and, recling like drunken men, whole blocks of solid stone houses collapsed as if they had been card houses. The offices of the agency and nearly all the adjaining buildings, including the Custom-house, the Lighthouse office, and the large oil mill, thus fell. Up in the town, entire streets similarly crumbled burrying their inhabitants by hundreds in the dibrir. The fine all castedness more or less yielded to the violence of the shock, and are for the most part mere heaps of ruins. The very solidity with which the town was built has aggravated the disastrous effects of the calumity a hundredfold, both as regards the loss of life and destruction of property.

aggravated the disastrous effects of the calumity a hundredfold, both as regards the loss of life and destruction of property.

"The most complete ruin has fallen upon the lower part of the town, where the earth literally opened and swallowed a broad belt of buildings right up from the sea to the slope inland. At this point a permanent subsidence of the ground has taken place, and the sea has accordingly encroached far into what on Thursday afternoon was one of the busists parts of Mytilene. In fact, to sum up the disaster, more than half of our beautiful town—the pretitiest and most lively perhaps in all the Levant—is a desert of ruins. The worst part of the calamity is, of course, the loss of life. As yet we can only guess at the extent of this, but it is thought that from $00 to 1000 have prished, whilst as many more have been maimed and wounded in every way. Up till to-day (9th March), 120 bodies have, I hear, been dug out of the safer ruins, but how many may be buried under others which are too dangerous to be approached, can only be surmised. Such of the houses as are still standing have all been abandoned, and the whole surviving population is now scattered over the hill-sides and emmongst the gardens outside the town,—a lew of them under such covers as they have been able to improvice, and the rest bivousching without shelter of any kind. Any attempt to describe the scane would be uneless. Heart-rending grafe, panic, and confusion.

provisions is expravating the distreet, and only a speedy supply from Smyrma or the capital can awart great additional loss of life. One of the Austrian Lloyd's steamers and a French gunboat from Smyrma have landed a quantity of biscuit and some other stores, but in all not perhaps more then a day's food for the place. It is earnestly to be hoped that the Ports will at once send down tents, biscuit, and whatever other stores can be quickest got together.

"But not the town of Mytilene alone has suffered from this great calamity; it has scattered ruin and death throughout the whole northern part of the island. Hardly a village has escaped, and not merely property but life has been destroyed in nearly the whole. Molivo has been all but entirely demolished, and several hundreds of its 6000 or 7000 inhabitants have, it is said, perished in the ruins. It is in fact no exaggeration to say that half the island has been laid waste, with a sacrifice of human life that may be reckoned by thousands. No such disaster has ever befallen Mytilene. But next week's steamer I shall try and send you what further details may be worth report, but in the meantime appeal warmly to public charity that the sufferings of these poor ruined and starving people may obtain speedy, if it be only slight, relief."

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

starving people may obtain speedy, if it be only slight, relief.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

On Thursday about 6 p.m., two severe shocks of earthquake destroyed nearly all the towns and villages of our island, except two or three situated on the south coast. The number of killed is reckoned at about 4000, but only a rough estimate can be made, as the shocks still continue, and people are afraid to approach the ruins under which the unhappy victims are buried. Here in this town, nearly the whole of the public buildings, hospitals, churches, &c., have been demolished, and public terror is yet at its height. During the first excitement, many threw themselves into the sea and endeavoured to swim to the vessels aschored in the port. The whole of the population is out upon the mountains and the neighbouring gardens and hill-sides, most of them without shelter and destitute of food, for the calamity has destroyed the whole of the bakehouses, shops, flour, and other provision stores in the town. Nearly every family has lost one or more of its members, whilst the destruction of property is enormous and universal. To complete the extastrophe, the survivors are in danger of perishing of hunger, and I am persuaded that unless the Government speedily sends supplies of food, hundreds, if not thousands more, will perish miserably."

The Irish Resident Gentry.—We mentioned a day or two age that at some points within the disturbed districts of the country, where the resident gentry had spiritedly put themselves at the head of their tenants and dependents, and shown a dispoittion to protect their own lives and property and that of their power neighbours from the wandering hordes of scattered insurgents, their tenantry had railied round them, and the consequence was an immediate feeling of confidence, such as it is not in the power of the Government to produce by almost any measure within their reach. Since those remarks were made we have had additional reason to mark their force and a vandness. We are glad to announce that a number of Irish proprietors who were casually absent from their homes, and that even some of the class of habitual absentees, are returning to share the difficulties and dangers, if there should be any, of their people. The duties the country gentry have to perform, even though there should be no actual outbreak in a district, are very important in the present crisis, and the occasion properly taken advantage of may tend o bring about an improvement in the relations of landerd and transt, by showing how little agitators can be nest the small farmers in the time of a peril, and how spiritedly, on the other hand, the landlords can perform their duty when every feeling of honour a diparticism impels them to, share the troubles of their tenantity.—Dublin Ereming Mail.

The Thankation of the Veda.—Professor Mix Muller, who has been for more than twenty years engaged in collecting the text of the Rig-Vega, is ab ut to publish an English translation of some of the Hymns contained in this work, which is the oldest collection of Religious Poetry in existence. Professor M. M.'s publication will be issued in eight octave volumes of twenty-five sheets each; to be published at the rate of two volumes per year. The subscription list is opened at Trubner and Co.'s, at Paternoster-row. We trust a work of so much importance to Sanskrit literature will be well received both in Europe and India. We cannot help thinking that our Government ought to see to the preservation of the Sanskrit MSS. which are perishing irre-roverably in our Eastern possessions, and not leave it to private effort, or chance, to avert a destruction which all future ages will deplore. The number of scholars who study Sanskrit is steadily on the increase; and by and bye the language will take a rank equal to, if not in advance of, that now occupied by Greek itself. When that time comes, people will look with diagnat upon Ministries—Whig or Tory—that busied themselves in concocting Reform Bills and Hyde Park suffrages, instead of attending to things that affect the permanent glory of the British Empire. The historian of a future day will care very little for the wisdom and intelligence added to the national councils by £6 householders; but he will care a great deal about a destruction as bad as that of the Alexandrian library.—Printers' Register.

deal about a destruction as bad as that of the Alexandrian libersy.—Printers' Register.

Little Watches.—At the first of our Great Exhibitions, the Swiss exhibited a watch only three-sixteenths of an inch in diameter, inserted in the top of a pencil-case; it showed hours, minutes, seconds, and the day of the month. An English specimen, the size of a three-penny-piece, was a giant to it. The Aanual Register, about a century ago, told of a watch only the fifty, fourth part of an inch in diameter; but this, we suspect, must be a mistake for fifty-four hundreds of an inch, a very different affair. Arnold presented to George the Third an exquisite watch of the size of a silver penny, set in a ring; it consisted of 120 separate parts, the whole of which weighted together less than six penny weights. And so intricate were the works, that Arnold 500 gives has the could make the watch. The King was so delighted with the work that he sent Arnold 500 guineas. When the Crar of Russia heard of this, he offered Arnold 1000 guineas to make a similar one for him; but this the arritar terised, determined that his own overeign's watch should be unique.—Diekens's "All the Year Round."

Improvement in Stram Boilens.—At a recent meeting of the Polytechnic Association of the American Institute, says the Mechanics, Magazine, Mr. J. Wyatt Reid exhibited a drawing of the common upright tubular boiler, and showed his proposed improvements upon it. He closes the exit of the smoke as now used, and adds a covering to the boiler, but of sufficient distance from it for the wmoke and heat to pass down outside of the boiler, and he then places a second shell or cover outside of this and conducts the smoke up between it and the first shell, and then conducts them into the chimney. He stated, that a boiler of 300 square feet of heating surface, could, by this method, be increased to 412 square feet. Some discussion ensued on the diameter of tubes in boilers, Mr. Reid stated that the upright tubular boiler was similar to a Davy lamp on a gigantic scale. The tubes arted on the same principle as the wire gause of the lamp in admitting the products of combustion through them.

Our supe was Hoven.—Whenever an exciting topic is known to be coming before the House people are apt to wander down to Palace yard, some, if it is a "people's question," with a view of cheering their friends and hissing their opponents, while others make it their pleasure to look on. On the 25th, though the all-exciting question of reform was known to be entering upon another phase at the House the usual "exciting scene in Palaco-yard" was to a great ritent sheent. The fact may be attributed to the signal fallures of the inter demonstrations" about the matropolis; but, whatever the cause, there was not at any time more than a few hundred persons about Westminster-hall and the atreets adjacent to Palace-yard, and, though there were some Acade.

worth recording, there was no great excitement. The anxiety to obtain admission to the House itself was as great as ever it is on such occasions, and at 6 o'clock in the morning as many persons as would have filled the members' gallery twice over were admitted to St. Stephen's-hall, there to wait until the afternoon, and many of these people must have waited through the small hours of the morning before admission. The sightseers outside the house and in Westminster Hall did not gather till about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Little knots of people had begun to assemble in Palace-yard at that time, but the police, of whom a strong body was posted about all the approaches, refused to allow any one to loiter within the precincts of the yard. "Inside the hall or outside the yard" was the order they gave to averyone who lingered about New Palace-yard. The respectable people generally entered the hall, where they were "dressed" in a long line three or four de-p, reaching from the door to the stairs, while other spectators, most of whom were of the artisan class, accepted the alternative of lounging about the "works" which obstruct the approach to Palace-yard. Member after member and the one in the hall; but for some time not the least show of spiprobation or disapprobation and the one in the hall; but for some time not the least show of spiprobation or disapprobation mouth to mouth, there were no cries from either side. The people in the hall stood very quiet and very patient. The eyes of the long line were directed anxiously towards the door, and the name of each member who entered that way was freely bursed about. There was no attempt at cheering anyone, however, not even well-known metropolitan members, until Mr. Flawett entered, and he was the first who received a popular recognition. Lord Hussell soon afterwards entered the hall, and repeated cheers, with waving of hats, greeted him as he passed. Mr. Villiers, the late President of the Poor Law Board, and Lord Clarendon entered together, and they had nearly reache

IMPORTANT and ABSOLUTE SALE by PUBLIC AUCTION of PASTORAL PROPERTY IN Queensland.

ORT and CO. have been instructed by E. Morey, Esq., to sell by public auction, or TURBDAY, 1th June, at the Blooms, Pitt-street, 66,000 sheep, more or less 1,000 head cattle, ditto; with MITCHELA DOWNS STATION.

This station, well known as one of the finest and most catensive in Queensland, is a portion of the same country as the celeb ated Mount Abundance runs, situate on the river Marsnoa, having frontages to both sides of that river, consisting of 15 blocks, and embracing an area of nearly 600,000 ACRES OF COUNTRY.

Siz blocks on the west bank have a frontage of about 63 mike by 10 miles back. On the east side there are nine bl cks of 25 square miles each, having a frontage of about 40 miles.

of the control of the river there are numerous creeks, and the whole frontage is well watered.

MITCHRIL DOWNS may truly be described as a FIRST-CLASS PROPERTY. A large estant of it is RICH UNDULATING DOWNS, bearing myall and a great variety of fattening grasses, herbage, and saltbash.

The forest lands are generally open, well grassed, and lightly timbered with box and silver-leaved iron bark.

The POSITION of this property adds much to its value. The railway line to Daiby -220 mine—is expected to be open for traffic in October next, thus greatly issenting the cost and facilitating the working of the station; and in a few years the terminus will be at Roma, distant only fifty mice from the station. No disease or foot rot has been known on this station, and it is, both as a fattening and breeding country, FIRST CLASS.

sheep, thus offering a favourable contrast to most stations in Queenaland.

The station is capable of carrying at the present time 120,000 sheep, and a herd of cattle. Its capabilities can be greatly increased by the erection of dams and paddocks.

The STOCK, sheep, cattle, and horses are of a fair average quality and character. The young sheep are of large frame; and it may salely be affirmed that, by careful breeding, MITCHELL DOWNS will produce as large and fine a quality of sheep as any run in that colony.

With the static will be sold 55,060 aheep, 1000 head of cattle, find 50 horses. The sheep consist of 30,000 breeding owes (more or less) 15,900 wethers (ditto)

650 rams (ditto)

19,500 weeners (ditto)

The CATTLE, 1000 head (more or less), are a quiet, well-bred herd, and have their own run at an easy distance from the head sestion.

The HORSES, 80 head, including one entire, have cost a large sum of money, and are now more than sufficient for the requirements of the station.

The whole property is in good working order.

Implements, goar, stores, &c., &c., will be found of good quality, and quite sufficient for the current year.

A considerable outlay has been incurred in necessary and permanent IMPROVEMENTS, which are too numerous to be particularised in an advertisement, but the accollancers will be happy to afford inteeding purchasers all information which they may desire respecting the stock, estion, or improvements.

which they may desire respecting the succes, sessions, or reprovements.

MITCHELL DOWNS is held under the Orders in Council, and the rents cannot therefore be increased during the currency of the present lease, which has nearly eight years to run, the yearly rental amounting to £450.

The present is a most favourable period for investing in Queenaland postoral properties. The Government are fully alive to the necessity of attracting capital to their colony, and a most liberal Land Bill is about to be introduced, manifesting a policy which there can be no heatstain in eaving, will enable Queenaland to develop her unrivalled graving capabilities in a marvellons degree, and much to the benefit of the fritunate leaseholders.

Inspection of this property is lavited.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from P. J. C. Wildash, Req., to sell by public auction, at the Booma, Pitt-street, Sydney, on TUESDAY, 28th May, 1867, at 11 o'clock, The above celebrated pastroal property.

CANNING DOWNS SOUTH to bounded on the north by the River Condamine, which divides it from the other portion of this magnificent property, and forms a natural boundary equal to fencing of 37 milee long. The area comprised within its limits is estimated at 200 square miles, or 132,000 ACRES, of the richest pasturage of the choice and favoured DARLING DOWNS; while, as a healthy run for wool-growing and for fattening purposes, it stands unrivalled by any other part of Queensland.

The water-supply is abundant, as, in addition to the Condamine, which borders it from end to end, the back country is furnished with numerous parmanent tributaries, yielding sufficient for a much larger number of sheep than are at present depasturing on it; while, with a very inconsiderable outlay in fencing, the graving capabilities of the run might be increased to 100,000 head.

CANNING DOWNS SOUTH is a portion of DAR-LING DOWNS PROPER, and is situated only a few miles from the town of Warwick, and is barely 57 miles from Ipswich, thereby saving the disadvantage of long car-riage; at the same time it must be remembered that within six months from this time, by the line now in progress, this run will be brought within 12 MILES OF A RAILWAY STATION; while it lies sufficiently off the line of ratiway to save its being interfered with. It also, from its peculiar position, possesses the advantage of not being disturbed by travelling stock or road traffic.

With this property will be sold the following sheep,

Ferticular attention is drawn to the favourable time for a purchaser at which this station is to be sold, as within three months of taking possession he will get the clip and increase by the spring lambs. The above property is so well known as one of the choice stations of the noted Darling Downs that comment is unnecessary, and Richardson and Wrench need only point out that its sale affords the best opportunity of the season for sequiring the MOST PROFITABLE INVESTMENT IN QUEENSLAND.
